Butter Shipments to United States

Saskatchewan Product is Shipped by the Carload to Points South of the Line

For the first time in the past two or three years the Saskatchewan Cooperative Creameries, Limited, is shipping butter in carload lots direct to cities in the United States. A carload shipment was recently made from Saskatchewan to Philadelphia. Two carloads were also shipped to Chicago, where they realized good prices. Each car contained between 25,000 and 30,- 000 lbs. of Saskatchewan butter.

LOWERED VITALITY

A Condition Following Indoor-Confinement
of Winter

There are very few people who do not need a tonic at this season of the year. The reason for this is that whether in the home, the office or the factory, people have been living throughout the long winter months in an atmosphere more or less vitiated, and as a result find themselves not up to their summer-time health. Throughout the long months of winter your blood has been growing thin and poor.
Closer confinement and lack of exercise have used it up and exhausted it.
You are not as energetic as you could wish. Your work tires you and perhaps your digestion is none too good.
Your nerves may be shaky and your appetite poor. All these things point to poverty of the blood. It is a scientific fact that if the blood of the strongest is tested in the spring there is less of it and it is poorer than it was in September. The spring medicines of our grandmothers—sulphur and molasses, salts and the like—recognized the necessity for aid at this season, but were an unscientific attempt to cleanse the blood. Modern medical science has found a better way. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make new, rich blood at the first dose and at every dose afterwards. Thus they strengthen every organ of the body and give new vitality to the faded system. Here is proof. Miss Clara Cheslock, High Falls, Que., says:—
"I was in a much run-down condition and my blood was thin and poor. I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I must thank you for the good they did me. I never enjoyed better health than I have since I took them."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"Worth $100 to Me Relieved Eczema and Piles"

Mrs. Peter A. Palmer, Saltburn, Sask., writes:

"Dr. Chase's Ointment has completely relieved me of eczema and piles. I also used this Ointment for my baby, who broke out in eczema. A few applications were all that was necessary in her case. Dr. Chase's Ointment has been worth a hundred dollars to me,—before using it I had spent a great deal more than that in unsuccessful treatment from doctors. We have also used Dr.
Chase's other medicines, the Nerve Food having restored my health after suffering from severe nerve trouble when a girl."

Sugar Once Used As Drug

Sold in Great Britain For Forty-Three Cents a Pound

"As you pour a little sugar in your tea or coffee, did you ever stop to think that one time it was used as a drug and it cost forty-three cents a pound?"

This was one of the main topics in a lecture given to the Technical Science Club of the Edmonton Technical School, by A. F. Lehmann, professor of chemistry at the University of Alberta, when he spoke on sugar.
Professor Lehmann told of the first site for sugar being in India and Siam,
and how it was later taken to Great Britain where it was at first used as a drug. Why it was used this way and the quantity consumed at each dose is not known, he said. A large cargo in those days consisted of fifty tons sold at forty-three cents a pound.

The speaker described the sugar as being stored in the stem of the plant, which was similar to the Indian corn.
The plant has no seed but is sprouted with slips from the cane. It is harvested yearly and Dr. Lehmann said the sugar from the beet, the maple tree and the cane were just the same,
the only difference being in the purities. He mentioned that the impurities in the maple sugar were pleasing to the taste, but those in the beet and the cane were nasty. Thus great pains had to be taken in the refining of these sugars, especially in the case of the beet.

Extension of Telegraph Lines

To Spend Half Million in Telegraph
Lines in B.C.

An investment of $500,000 in British Columbia on new telegraphic lines
centring at Vancouver, is to be undertaken by the Canadian Pacific Rail-

W. Marshall, assistant manager of

Two new lines will connect Vancouing the service to compensate for the growth of business in this port.

One effect will be direct connection with Portland, as the Sumas line will join with the postal wire at that point.

There is at present a market for three times the amount of wool produced in this country, according to W. W. Thompson, western manager of the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers, Limited. While in 1922 Canada exported $6,000,000 pounds of wool, valued at $2,263,931, or over one-half of the total clip, wool imported into the country during the same period amounted to 18,273,314 pounds, valued at $5,091,593, in addition to wools and wool waste, weighing 9,285,000 pounds
and yarn weighing 3,402,000 pounds.
Manufactured woolsens of various kinds to the value of a further $32,- company will play engagements of Reports from both cities forecast a cordial welcome for the organization, which is rated as one of the most distinguished that has been sent through Northwestern Canada in many years.

Thomas Jefferson, who is playing the title role, which the late Frank Bacon created, is a son of the late Joseph Jefferson, who immortalized "Rip Van Winkle." Miss Bessie Bacon, who appeared in her father's support during "Lightnin'"'s historic run of three years on Broadway, is also a member of the company, appearing in the role of the vamping vaudeville actress.

The company will be sent to London

Says He Is A New Man

That's Why Nova Scotia Man Praises Dodd's Kidney Pills

Mr. J. J. Comeau, who suffered from Kidney trouble, found relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lower Saulnierville, N.S.—(Special)
—Mr. Comeau, a well known and respected resident here is a staunch friend of Dodd's Kidney Pills. He has tried them and found them good.
This is what he says:
"I am over 60 years of age, and have suffered so much from Kidney troubles. I took several boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and now I am exactly a new man. I shall always remain a friend of Dodd's Kidney Pills."

It is wonderful how some people
will go on suffering day after day, with aches and pains, backaches and rheumatism. They suffer because they are not aware of the fact that they can get relief. Strengthen the kidneys, which are the source of the trouble, and these pains vanish.
Dodd's Kidney Pills stimulate and strengthen weak kidneys. They are used and recommended all over the world.

GERMANY HAS ACCEPTED THE EXPERTS' REPORT

Paris.—The German Government has accepted the experts' report as a practical basis for a solution of the reparation problem. The reply of the German Government was handed to the reparation commission and there was much enthusiasm at reparation headquarters when it became known that Germany would collaborate with the commission in the settlement of this most difficult problem on the basis set forth by the experts.

France, Great Britain, Belgium and Germany now have announced their acceptance of the experts' report and Italy's acceptance is expected soon.

Already there appears to be a distinction, if not a difference, between the interpretation of the German reply by the reparation commission and the German delegation. The latter says the acceptance means that negotiations will be necessary in which Germany will have an equal footing with the others. The British prime minister's acceptance is regarded here as virtually unconditional, while Premier Poincaré's reference to the report needing touching up is held to be a forerunner of various reservations.

The differences do not appear to be such that they cannot be overcome and optimism is increased by the fact that a "speedy solution" is the keynote of the various acceptances.

The German reply to the reparation commission's communication is regarded as a real bona fide acceptance of the report as a basis for settlement of the reparations question and going fully as far as the commission expected.

Canada Is In Need Of More Publicity

Montreal.—"There is nothing the matter with Canada. What Canada really needs is a lot of publicity," said Lord Rothermere, well-known newspaper proprietor, in summarizing here his experiences during his brief stay in the Dominion. He added: "I am seriously considering, on my return to England, placing three or four 'star' newspapermen on the job of telling England something about Canada."

Group Settlement

British Settlers to be Located on C.N.R. Lands in Groups of Twenty Families

Ottawa.—British settlers are to be located on lands owned by the Canadian National Railways in groups of 20 families, under an arrangement entered into by the railway and the Overseas Settlement Committee of the colonial office, under the British Empire Settlement Act, it was stated in the House of Commons.

The Canadian National undertakes to have advanced an amount not to exceed £300 to enable the settler to purchase stock and equipment, and the British secretary of state guarantees payment of the full amount of any loss incurred through such advances, but the total guarantee will not exceed 50 per cent. of the total amount advanced to all settlers.

Earthquake Disturbances

Earth Tremors Reported From Many Points Believed to be Submarine

London.—The reports from widely separated parts of the world of a great earthquake have received no elucidation here, but in the absence of definite news as to the locality or localities affected it is assumed that the phenomenon was submarine.

There were local shocks in Switzerland and Italy, but no serious damage was reported. There has been no recurrence in England of the tremors of April 5 and April 8. London itself is outside the area which occasionally feels slight shocks. These disturbances usually occur in the North Midland and eastern counties.

Exports Only Temporary

Trail Smelter Can Handle All Ores Says Mining Official

Nelson, B.C.—Commenting on the phase of the coast agitation for a smelter based on the supposition that Trail Smelter has about reached its limit, an official of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada made the statement that the export of zinc concentrates and of lead bullion from the Trail Smelter to Europe is only temporary, and is strictly pending the completion of the power extension at Bonington being made by the West Kootenay Power and Light Company, the Trail corporation's subsidiary. There is no thought of shutting off the handling of customs ore and concentrates.

Russia Taking Her Time

Will Not Enter Into Hurried Agreement With Britain

Moscow.—Russia will not be hurried into any agreement with Great Britain on the ground that the MacDonald Government might fall during prolonged negotiations, declared M. Zinoviev, chairman of the executive committee of the Third Internationale, speaking on behalf of that body.

"Substantial interest will be paid for substantial credits," said Zinoviev, "but Russia is not going to pay England a half-billion pounds because she considers England owes Russia more than this."

Prisoner Starved to Death

Corporal Punishment In the British Navy

London.—Whipping of boys in the navy with a birch, for disciplinary purposes, will not be abolished, declared Charles Ammon, Parliamentary Secretary of the Admiralty, in reply to a question in the House of Commons. Such punishment is inflicted by court martial for certain serious offences. When he went to the Admiralty, Secretary Ammon said, he made enquiries on the matter and he found there had only been six cases since 1917 of offences at all serious. Most of the flogged boys "made good," whereas in previous cases of imprisonment for offences the boys had "gone bad."

Britain Willing To Discuss Disarmament

Premier Says General Conference of Powers is Desirable

London.—Prime Minister MacDonald, responding to a speech in the Commons by Major-General J. E. Seely, former president of the Air Council, who advocated that the Premier call an international conference for disarmament, declared he would welcome an invitation by any other power to take up the whole question of armaments.

The Prime Minister, while emphasizing that a general conference on armament was desirable, declared it was of "greatest" importance that there be no reason for misunderstanding between Great Britain and France. "It is most important that that should be so," he said. His statement on British relations with France was coupled with a reference to "this unfortunate air race that has already begun."

Heavy Stocks of Grain

Quantity of Grain in Canada, Except Rye, is Greater Than Last Year

Ottawa.—On March 31, 1924, the quantity of wheat in Canada was 202,193,000 bushels, as compared with 139,788,000 bushels in 1923, according to returns received by the Federal Bureau of Statistics. The following are the totals for coarse grains and flax.

Oats, 283,516,000 bushels, compared with 191,718,000 bushels in 1923.

Barley, 30,119,000 as compared with 25,129,000.

Rye, 8,526,000 as compared with 9,835,000.

Flax, 1,265,000 as compared with 1,742,000.

For all these grains excepting rye, the quantity at the end of the March, 1924, is greater than that of a year ago.

Geneva.—Japan has notified the League of Nations that Japan will abide by the decision of the fourth International Labor Convention, asking all nations to send emigration and immigration statistics to the International Labor Office.

The notification, however, makes reservations as to special accord to be concluded between states which are members of the league. The exact purpose of the reservation statement is not understood in league circles here.

B.C. Lumber For Britain

Victoria, B.C.—F. C. Wade, agent-general in London for British Columbia, will be asked to support a plan of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce to secure for British Columbia a share of the business offered by the contemplated building of 2,500,000 homes in the British Isles. The chamber aims to advance the claims of British Columbia lumber.

Rewards Life Saver

Toronto.—Echoes of the German steamer Hammonia wreck in the Bay of Biscay on September 9, 1922, were heard when Mayor Hiltz in behalf of the German Government, presented an iron plaque and certificate to J. Bohan, of Toronto, for having assisted in saving the lives of 365 of the passengers and crew on that occasion.

JAPAN HOTLY RESENTS THE U.S. EXCLUSION ACT

Tokio.—The Yorozu Choho representing the Jangos, declares editorially that the action of the United States Congress in passing the exclusion legislation amounts to a challenge to Japan. It says the nation must prepare for whatever may come, even war.

The Kokumin demands the immediate resignation of the ministry.

Numerous public bodies, including the Associated Chambers of Commerce in Japan, the American-Japan Society, and the Japan Economic Society have called urgent meetings to discuss the immigration situation.

Officials do not deny the probabilities of unpleasant popular reactions, and it is fully expected that the opposition will make all possible political capital from the government's immigration defeat. The action of Congress comes as a blow in the heat of an election campaign throughout Japan.

Inflammatory campaign speeches, public indignation meetings, resolutions and bitter editorials, are all expected as an aftermath of Washington's exclusion legislation.

The government, however, is determined to take a vigorous stand against any policy of retaliation. It asserts it will do its utmost to curb popular indignation and maintain the fullest possible friendly relations with the United States.

Washington.—The Senate put itself formally on record on the question of Japanese exclusion by re-adopting the Shortridge exclusion amendment to the immigration bill 74 to 4.

Earnings of the Canadian Pacific Railway for the last ten days of March amounted to $4,498,000, as compared with $4,313,000 for the corresponding period a year ago. This is an increase of $185,000 or 4.2 per cent.

Forty pilgrimages to the famous shrine at Ste. Anne de Beaupre, Quebec, have already been arranged for June, July and August this year. Over 200,000 visitors are expected, most of them from Montreal, Toronto, Buffalo, Philadelphia, Chicago, New York and Boston.

Although it has already spent $4,000,000 in drilling for oil in Alberta without very definite results, the Imperial Oil, Limited, proposes to keep at its development campaign, so F. J. Wolfe, director of marketing for the concern, states. Already the company's $2,500,000 refinery at Calgary has had the effect of keeping prices down, he says.

An important industrial enterprise is being added to the list in Montreal in the plant of the National Cement Company, which is being constructed in the town of Montreal East on the site of one of the largest deposits of raw material for cement in Canada. The first unit of the plant will have a capacity of 900,000 barrels per annum.

A total of 969 communities in Alberta are now served by the Provincial Government telephone system. The total number of phones served in the system is 67,279, of which 32,260 are exchange phones, 20,252 are rural phones and 1,085 are private party lines and 13,385 are connecting subscribers. During the year 1923, 3,380 tourist automobiles entered the province of Nova Scotia, the Land of Evangeline, according to the annual report of the Nova Scotia Tourist Commission. Altogether 63,000 tourists visited the province and distributed a sum estimated at $6,000,000.

A picked detachment of an officer and ten men of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police recently crossed the Atlantic on the Canadian Pacific liner Melita. Their duty will be to guard the Canadian exhibits at the British Empire Exhibition. The Exhibition and buildings cost about $200,000,000.

A chain of factories stretching across Canada will be established by the Dominion Tar and Paper Company, sponsored by English interests. This was announced by the Earl of Dunmore, V.C., and Sir Harold Botton after a recent visit to Canada. Sites have already been secured in Montreal, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Toronto.

The Canadian Pacific steamer Empress of Britain will arrive at Quebec shortly on her first voyage from Liverpool as a cabin-class steamer under her new name Montroyal. She is the fastest vessel sailing out of Liverpool and is scheduled to run from there to Quebec in six and a half days.

British Columbia's payroll for 1923 was $150,000,000, according to the annual report of the Workmen's Compensation Board. The payroll for 1922 was $128,592,502, and for 1921, $130,099,373. Employing firms operating at the end of last year numbered 6,524, an increase of 145 over the previous year.

The 1924 season for the port of Montreal was officially opened on the morning of the 18th of April, when the Government ice-breaker Lady Grey arrived in the harbor. A big season is anticipated, especially by the Canadian Pacific steamships, whose vessels on the St. Lawrence route this year will exceed 197,000 gross tons.

Vancouver this season has beaten Portland, the great wheat port of the Northwest and formerly the great wheat port of the Pacific. Portland includes flour in its wheat totals, Vancouver does not. According to the Portland press the American city has moved over 23,000,000 bushels of wheat to date. Vancouver, in the same period, shipped 36,000,000 bushels, exclusive of a very considerable quantity of flour.

The much prized Wilder silver medal, the highest award of the American Pomological Society, the oldest horticultural body in North America, has been awarded to the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa for the sixth time. The medal on this occasion was given for the Lobo apple, one of the many fine varieties of McIntosh Red parentage originated at the Central Farm.

An estimate of $1,500,000 for fire protection and management of forest reserves has been placed before the Government for approval by the Minister of the Interior. The Minister stated that more drastic measures of fire prevention would be taken this year and in this connection the Department of the Interior proposes to utilize the Royal Canadian Air Force for the detection of fires.

THE NET OF NIPIGON.

"The charm of freshwater, the charm of mirror-like surfaces . . . and the sweet smell of the woods."

Like a flower escaped from a garden is the fish-net found in inland Canada. Nets belong to the sea, to the sea-mists of the Atlantic shores and to the salmon-runs of the Pacific. What are they doing inland, out of habitat, "fish out of water," as it were?

But when you chance upon the "inland net" of the Indian, wound around a crude wheel whittled out of saplings, something inside, some inner sense, speaks out saying: "This is the original. The Seacoast nets of America came here long after this! These threads, these meshes—they run back, back, back to the Garden-of-Eden-time of this continent." And recent discoveries of fossil-skeletons are placing that period back much further than that 20,000 years to which we had become accustomed even if we couldn't understand or comprehend it.

The nets of Nipigon need no aid from men in order to write themselves as belonging in that class of simple things which appeal to the heart. When we happen on one of them in some clearing, its gossamer length thrown about the old wheel's throat it speaks to us with the same human touch as of some bright shawl.

What a vista of a world of the wild and free, it conjures up. The "Twine" so inanimate written on the page of the Government's "Indian allowance" becomes a thing of life, when you happen upon it changed by the handwork of the Indian into one of these inland nets. Nets of a lightness of quality to complement the frailty and mobility of the dainty canoe which is the hyper-sensitive fishboat of this world of inland lakes and rivers.

Like some lace veil is this Old . . . Inland . . . Net! You feel you might take it in hand and run it through a finger ring. Compared with it, how crude seems the coarse strength of tanned lengths that is the herring-trap of the Atlantic coast. How rude and strong the thick gunwale and heavy timbers, the long oar-sweeps of the fishboats that work the herring nets! These are fine paintings, jealously hung in an inner room . . . not many of them . . . rare. Those others, in the beauty of their strength, are the sculpture in the gallery of Canadian handiwork. There is no question of superiority only an interesting and very entertaining one of difference. Sometimes we are in a mood for the sculpture, for the strength of the sea; and nothing can satiate this hunger when it is upon us, but the way of the Maritime . . . East or West.

But these inland nets that stand for Canadian lakes and rivers, those wonderful water highways, or mere bridge paths, and canoe-trails of water, have their own charm . . . the charm of freshwater, the charm of mirror-like surfaces, the charm of the deep peace and the sweet smell of the woods.

What sort of world's work, someone murmurs, can be accomplished of these toy nets . . . more like feminine draperies than tools of an industry?

The filigree meshes wound about this old, weathered skeleton of a reel do not purport to be a Blue-Book of the immensity and range of the freshwater fisheries of Canada . . . and they are immense . . . so much as a point-finger of the hundreds of miles of lakes and rivers opened up to sportsmen following the beckoning of . . . "the nets of Nipigon."—Victoria Hayward.

It was well into the silent hour of midnight when final preparations were made for the advance on the bandits' camp. Their plans were laid. They tightened and fixed up their saddle girths, and saw to the security of all the fastenings. Then, with their firearms loaded and ready for action, they started on their way. Ronald leading and the other closely following behind. Increased precautions were taken the nearer they approached the vicinity of the camp. In this way they continued their advance until, through the opening in the trees, they could distinguish the small open place wherein the tent was located. At a signal from the leader, they stopped to take careful note of the ground. They could hear the horses grazing and stamping close by. Beyond their temporary pasture there was no stir to indicate the close presence of the outlaws. All was quiet. Satisfied that all was safe, and that no sound had yet betrayed their presence, Ronald proceeded to carry his scheme of advance into effect.

Signalling his companion to stop where he was, he took his position beside his horse and quietly urged him forward. Finally emerging into the open space, and using his horse as cover, for his lean color blended well with the surroundings, he gradually worked his way on, carefully guiding his horse in the desired direction as he allowed him occasionally to pull at a tuft of grass at his feet. A few yards beyond and slightly to the right was the tent, now distinguishable in the darkness. With his eyes now well accustomed to the darkness, he, on closer inspection, made out the form of the man on guard as he reclined in front of the tent. Just ahead of him two horses were grazing on the space between, and, using them as additional cover, he continued to slowly advance step by step. When he was within ten yards or so of the reclining man, he was startled to see him suddenly look up and take a look around the grounds. Effectually screened behind the horse, he still hoped to escape detection, but yet

PAINS IN BACK AND SIDES

Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lindsay, Ontario.—"I used to have very bad pains in my back and sides and often was not fit to do my work. I tried many medicines before I began to take yours. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the 'Toronto Globe' and now that it has helped me I recommend it to all of my neighbors. I keep it in the house all the time and take it once in a while no matter how well I feel, for one ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

—ELIZABETH CAMPBELL, 13 St. Paul St., Lindsay, Ontario.

To do any kind of work—and you know there is much to be done—is next to impossible if you are suffering from some form of female trouble. It may cause your back to ache or a pain in your side; it may make you nervous and irritable. You may be able to keep up and around, but you do not feel good.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for women. It is especially adapted to relieve the cause of these troubles, and restore them to normal health.

he waited with revolver in hand ready to shoot immediately in case of discovery. After taking a look around, and then peering into the tent, the man, apparently satisfied that all was well, resumed his former position, and, in a short time, again seemed dead to his surroundings.

During this time, while Ronald remained stationary, a new idea formed in his mind. Reaching over into his saddle pack, he pulled out an Indian "sling shot," or "billy," a weapon he had picked up after the General Middleton forces had captured Batoche, and which he was keeping as a souvenir. Quickly slipping this weapon on to his wrist by means of a loop attached to its raw hide handle, he again commenced to slowly advance towards the tent. All at once his attention was attracted by a figure stealthily creeping through the tent opening. Surprise at this new turn in events, and fearing to give a warning, he stood still and watched it as it crept farther and farther through the opening. Slowly as the figure emerged, it arose, first on hands and knees, then, with the right hand uplifted, to a crouching position, in an attitude ready for attack, the threatened victim being the prostrate man in front. At this instant, as if subconsciously sensing a new danger, the girl, for it was none other, turned her head towards her hidden rescuer. Seeing him her figure relaxed, and she slowly collapsed without uttering a sound, and lay prostrate.

Ronald knew that the crisis had come, and that further delay was dangerous. He covered the distance that separated him from the reclining man with the silence and swiftness of a panther. With unerring aim he landed him a blow on the head with his "billy" and the man rolled over unconscious, uttering a low moan. Swiftly taking hold of the arm of the prostrate girl, he raised her to her feet. Seeing that she was conscious, he placed his revolver into her hand, gave her the bridle rein of his own horse, and whispering into her ear, he told her that her father was nearby and to go to him. Then, taking a look in the direction of the other sleeping men, and noting that they were still undisturbed, he rolled the unconscious man off the saddle, took his revolver and, picking up his saddle, he swiftly and noiselessly placed it on the back of one of the horses grazing beside him. Lastly, as if inspired by a new idea, he went calmly and quickly about and cut loose, one by one, the remaining horses in the band. He then mounted the one he was leading and drove them back over the trail they had come. At the point where the trail ascended the hill, Mr. Fraser, with his rescued daughter, even in their agitation, commanded sufficient presence of mind to turn them on to the trail leading up the side of the hill. Quickly following at the heels of the horses, they were soon out of danger on the level prairie above. The sound of firearms in the valley below warned them that the bandits had discovered their loss—too late.

CHAPTER IV.

The sun had risen in the north-east and its warm rays had dried the dew on the grass by the time the three weary travellers, Fraser, his rescued daughter, and Ronald MacRae arrived at the broken stretch of prairie that had been used the previous day as their way south. Suffering from the exertions and excitement of the previous thirty-six hours, they decided to yield to nature's demands for rest and relaxation. They took advantage of this suitable location to make a break or two or three hours in their journey and enjoy a much needed rest. They accordingly dismounted and tethered their riding horses, while the remaining horses were allowed to range at large in the vicinity. On the shady side of a clump of bushes, blankets were spread on the grass. The provisions, of which there was a plentiful supply in their haversacks, were produced and preparations made to enjoy their first real meal.

While Mary spread out the contents of the haversacks, Ronald produced from his pack his army service tin and brewed some tea on a small fire made from twigs gathered from the surrounding brush. As they partook of their early morning breakfast, conversation seemed constrained, each one seemed absorbed in deep thought and contemplation of the dangers through which they had passed in the last few hours. Such conversation as took place was carried on in monosyllables. To Ronald the constraint of the silence during the time they were eating was depressing. Pregnant as the occasion was with topics for discussion, he could not command the resourcefulness to start up a spirited conversation. Failing thus, he continued his breakfast in silence, at the same time rapt in admiration of the strangely attired young woman, whose enforced adventure so unexpectedly turned him aside from the course of his journey.

The constraint may have been due to the weariness induced by the exertions following their exciting experiences, but it, nevertheless, added embarrassing features to the situation that also added to the discomforts of the young man. The fact that she owed her rescue to the skill and exertions of the young man, and he a total stranger, was no less embarrassing to the young woman. That she owed a debt of unfathomable gratitude to him for what he had done on her behalf was of no deeper significance to her than the great pleasure it afforded him to have been placed in the position of being able to give her his assistance in the time of need. Thus the barrier of constraint stood between them during the course of their first meal together. Mr. Fraser, deeply absorbed in his own thoughts, seemed disinclined to break the silence.

After they had had their breakfast, and were for some time lying recumbent on the ground enjoying a rest, Mary, at last, broke the silence by asking her father what he thought would become of the horse thieves now that they were deprived of their horses. Mr. Fraser, who had given very little thought to the predicament in which they were placed, said: "I don't know, and I don't care, so long as we have saved you from their clutches. But, if the Mounted Police should come across them they will take care of them as they would have some trouble in explaining to them how they happen to be travelling over the country on foot. To my way of thinking, hanging would be a more deserving fate for those rascals than the penitentiary."

"Father, don't you think that hanging is too severe a penalty for horse stealing?"

"Horse stealing," he said, "the common penalty in their own country is shooting at sight, or hanging without a trial when caught. But when, in addition, they add to that the stealing of young women and carrying them away by force, I don't know what punishment would be inflicted; perhaps they would be tortured, then hanged."

"But, father, only one of those men knew I was a woman. While I should like to see him caught and punished, yet I think that shooting, or hanging, would be a dreadful punishment. He has done me no real harm nor injury, and now that we have our horses back again, it is not so bad. I think the rest of the gang had enough punishment in the loss of their horses. Don't you think so Mr. MacRae?"

Ronald, thus appealed to for the first time, entered into the discussion by saying: "Miss Fraser, it is sometimes hard to decide on the justice or injustice of the severity of punishments inflicted for various crimes. But, according to the code of justice of western pioneer life, horse stealing is considered one of the most serious crimes, even on a par with murder itself."

"Why should it be considered a more serious crime in the west than in the east? Stealing a horse is not as bad as killing a man."

"It is," Miss Fraser, "because human life depends so much on the service of horses, that, in many ways, to be forcibly deprived of the use of them means the life or death of those who depend on them. This is not the case in thickly settled districts. There law and order is administered and enforced by the proper authorities, and where life is not so dependent on the services of the horse, it is looked upon as an ordinary case of theft, and is punished as such."

"But why," she added, "should people take the law in their own hands? Why not let the proper authorities administer the law and punish for crimes?"

"It is because of the difficulties of administering the law in large unsettled territories that the people, feeling the lack of protection, take the law into their own hands and deal summarily in handing out what justice is due, according to their common code, to horse thieves and other offenders."

"I don't know, Mr. MacRae, but it seems to me that laws of that kind, and enforced in that way, would be in many cases drastic and unjust. So many might be wrongly accused, and innocent people suffer punishment and, perhaps death, without a chance of proving their innocence."

"What you say is quite true," Miss Fraser. "To those of us, who are protected, and are accustomed to the ordinary procedure of law in such cases, the punishment may seem drastic and unjust. But, on the other hand, to those who live surrounded by the dangers of an unsettled country, remote from the proper administration of law and order, it seems to them to be the only effective way of handing out swift justice to a dangerous class of criminals."

"But, Mr. MacRae, are we not responsible for endangering the lives of those 'horse rustlers' in cutting loose and driving their horses away last night? Don't we leave them to perish on the open prairie with no means of getting back to safety? If they should perish on the prairie, would we not be held responsible for their death?"

"In doing that we are guilty of no offence against the law. Those men are outlaws. They are not only guilty of horse stealing, but also of the more serious crime of kidnapping. To avoid capture they would, without a moment's hesitation, have committed murder. In attempting to escape from them they would have shot you. Had we not rescued you by strategy they would have shot us if we had made the attempt in the open." "It seems to me," she added, "that if we had left their horses we would have given them a chance for their lives—a chance to get back to safety. I am not at all blaming you for taking their horses; I was just wondering."

Germany Said to Have a House That Is 1,200 Years Old

One of the oldest homes in Europe is the home of Count Matuschke Gröfenkulu, in the hamlet of Winkel, Germany, near Bingen-on-the-Rhine. The building is estimated to be at least 1,200 years old. It antedates any structure standing in Germany today, and it is said there are not many in all of Europe that has weathered more years than this old structure. Rhabanus, Maurus, Archbishop of Mainz, who died in 856, is the first owner of the building, according to the records available. Count Gröfenkulu has asked scientists to interest themselves in the building in the hope of arriving at its age.

AROUND THE TOWN

Don't forget that next Wednesday will be a half holiday.

The Baseball Boys dance will be held on Friday night this week instead of Saturday.

A Board of Trade meeting will be held in the school on Friday evening. You are requested to attend.

Dr. and Mrs. Clarke were visitors in Edmonton last week where Dr. was attending a meeting of the Alberta Medical Board. Mrs. Clarke and children returned this week.

Rev. McNabb of Calgary will occupy the pulpit in the Presbyterian church this Sunday in place of Rev. McNutt who was called to a funeral at Consort.

The Carstairs baseball team played an exhibition game here on Tuesday night in which they beat the local's 8-2. It was a very good game and quite a few fans attended from each town.

Mr. John Manson brought one of the families of Hebrideans, who recently settled in the Red Deer district, down to occupy his farm at the Dog Pound. Mr. and Mrs. MacMillan have five children. Didsbury welcomes these new comers.

Work is being proceeded with on the new golf links which are situated in the south end of town from Burrill's livery barn to the brush and the entire width of open land. The greens are nearing completion and a fair membership has been signed up insuring a good season this year.

The Company has also issued a compact pocket folder regarding the "Trans Canada Limited", the fastest train across Canada, giving schedule and other information.

A copy of either or both of these will be gladly furnished to any one upon application to the Canadian Pacific Ticket Agent.

Is This You

Mr. J. Williams, Public Health Inspector, Edmonton, paid an official visit to Didsbury on Wednesday in respect to sanitary conditions here. One case was brought up and a fine of $20 and costs was imposed.

Mr. Williams was on the point of bringing quite a few others up but in order to give them a chance asked that they be notified through the paper that unless certain changes were made before his next arrival it would go hard with some of them.

His chief complaint was that of many of the privies not being in compliance with the town bylaw. These must be changed immediately if one desires to escape fines etc. The cost is rather high and the Inspector suggested that the citizens do as they have in some other towns, call a meeting together, find out how many there are to be done and then let a contract for the bunch. In the event of this being done immediate steps should be taken as while Mr. Williams pointed out, he let them keep their fines to use for improvements, next time it will cost a fine and improvements too.
